UD FACULTY AUTHORS RECOGNIZED

DAYTON, Ohio, February 17, 1982 -- The University of Dayton will hold a special recognition reception for faculty members who are published authors or editors on February 23, 1982. The event celebrates the accomplishments of some 57 UD faculty members who have published 81 different works from 1974 through 1981.

The reception, being held in the Music and Theatre Building (from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.) will be attended by invited guests and University faculty, staff, and administrators.

The UD authors' works represent a wide range of topics including history, education, communication, religion, science, and mathematics. The novels, textbooks, and reference books demonstrate the quality of the UD faculty. University President Brother Raymond L. Fitz, S.M., an author himself, says of the work of the authors, "The talent and diversity which these authors and editors exhibit are a tribute to UD's scholarship and creativity."

The UD authors are a part of a total University faculty of over 575 full and part-time educators. In addition to the books, faculty members also publish articles, and make presentations to numerous professional meetings, workshops, and seminars.
